50 Year Anniversary – Beach Buggy

2014 marks the 50th anniversary of the beach buggy, a milestone in automotive history as a vehicle that has seen very little changes in all its years. Bruce Meyers was the first to create a fibreglass body to sit on top of a Volkswagen Beetle floorpan back in 1964. With a 'go anywhere' attitude, these little cars started a craze and began popping up all over the world.

Being a fibreglass body, some of the originals are still going strong today, but new changes are happening with Bruce Meyers creating the new Manxter 4 seater model and the Kick Out SS 2 seater. There is also the full Max fx range of long and short wheel base options, all available from Beach Buggy Australia.

Today's buggies have seen a surge of interest in recent years with a lot more high tech buggies on the road, beach and drag strip.

If you are looking for a new ride or project, you can't go past the good old beach buggy!
